Dated: Apr 27, 2009

Many people are looking for no fee work at home data entry jobs because they don't know that there are better opportunities on the internet. There are many exciting opportunities if you know where to look.

Ever since the Internet was invented, people have been trying to use it to make money. There are many schemes which are advertised such as “no fee work at home data entry positions” but they're not real jobs.

Unscrupulous people like to prey on those who are looking to earn some money without leaving their homes.

In reality, as in the “real world” something of value must be exchanged during a transaction for a viable business exist. Scamming and cheating people is a short-term activity. As soon as you're discovered, you have to move on.

There are only two ways to make money on the Internet; Sell your own products and services, or help someone else sell their products and services.

Miazona has announced a program for those who don't want to sell their own products or services but who would consider helping others sell theirs. It's ideal for people interested in no fee work at home data entry positions because it requires lots of time on the computer, but is more interesting and rewarding than simple data entry positions.

Miazona's unique program allows anyone to create up to ten blogs, on whatever topics they choose, and reap advertising revenue for their efforts.

Miazona places advertising on each blog page and collects advertising revenue. The revenue is divided up among the blog writers based on a number of factors such as how often the blog was read, how many visitors clicked through to advertisers and whether they purchased or not.

Marketing Director Mary Westcott recently stated “Unlike other programs that only buy “acceptable” blog posts, our program has no such limitations - any blog page that draws traffic earns money.”

When asked about what topics can be discussed Ms. Westcott replied “As long as your topics are not hurtful to others or about illegal topics, we don't care what you blog about.

In response to whether she would consider paying bloggers extra to say nice things about specific advertisers, she shot back “We're not interested in hiring people to talk nice about products just to make a few dollars, we want honest opinions and discussion to be taking place.”

The pilot program has no fees whatsoever, but Miazona has stated, “we may have to limit the number of bloggers we can support, so get started soon.”

So if you've been interested in no fee work at home data entry positions, you may want to consider visiting <http://miazona.com> or calling Ms. Westcott at 978-458-2170.
