Dated: Apr 29, 2009

Loving Barcelona Apartments offers a massive choice of quality Barcelona apartments, over 250, but despite this, it's so simple to find the right apartment for you with an array of options and search functions.

Loving Barcelona Apartments, the Barcelona apartment rental specialist, has what may seem like a bewildering array of apartments on offer, yet the website is so simple to use, as it has a great number of easy to use functions that make finding the right apartment a doddle.

If you have fixed dates, then this will easily whittle down the list of available apartments as almost all of their apartments have real time availability calendars that instantly show you when an apartment is available.

You can further filter the list of Barcelona apartments by many features, as well as the standard, such as the number of bedrooms and location, you can also specify filters such as balcony, air-conditioning and a washing machine.

Where Loving Barcelona Apartments is different to the rest, is also the options to sort your list by Guest Ratings, to see what real people thought of different aspects of the their Barcelona apartment, such as Value For Money, or Budget to Luxury. In addition, past guests also rate how suitable apartments are for different types of groups, such as Young Families or Mature Couples. So, were as their competitors simply give you a bog standard rating (which always seems to be 8 out of 10 for every apartment), they have harnessed the power of feedback for their website users and potential guests to show how suited an apartment is to your stay.

Combined with their other unique features such as their Big Group Booking Tool for large groups, and their My List of favourites that can be directly emailed from the site they make finding the right Barcelona Apartment easy despite the huge number listed.
