Every year in the UK, 82,000 babies are born prematurely or sick, 25% of them needing intensive care, often for weeks or months. Agatha Holloway was one of these babies, born almost three months early. Fortunately for Agatha and her family, after her birth there was one last incubator available for her at the Neonatal Unit at St George's Hospital and this undoubtedly saved her life.

Now, through Agatha's Appeal, her family are striving to raise £25,000 to buy another incubator for the unit that saved the life of their special little girl, to give more babies like Agatha the same fighting chance.

To help raise funds for Agatha's Appeal, Leaders are inviting members of the public and local business community to drop into their office at 46 High Street Walton-on-Thames, any time on St George's Day for a cup of coffee, cakes and biscuits - and to enter their Agatha's Appeal raffle. Some of the fantastic prizes include: luxury gift boxes from Rituals; quality bottles of wine from Wine Rack; sport goodies and a voucher from Sweaty Betty; Sony walkmans from Sony; vouchers from Carluccios; a voucher from Noble Vine Public House; a gift from Perfume House; and a selection of chocolates, biscuits and bottles of alcohol.

Agatha's mother, Samantha Holloway, will be there to carry out the drawing of the raffle at 3pm. For more information about Agatha's Appeal, please see <http://www.agathasappeal.co.uk>
