Le Vian's Tantalizing Museum Quality Tanzanite and Diamond Jewelry Design Pairs Exquisitely with Stuart Weitzman's Architecturally Sophisticated Evening Sandal For an Award Winning Masterpiece Worth $2 Million!

The exquisite Le Vian® tanzanite and diamond bejeweled Stuart Weitzman evening sandal was unveiled at the New York Public Library in January 2007 as the winner in the "Fashion Accessories" category in the Tanzanite Foundation's first ever Celebration of Life Jewelry Design Awards.

The outstanding design is a result of a partnership between Eddie LeVian, award winning fine jewelry designer and CEO of the storied 500 year old Le Vian® Jewelry, and Stuart Weitzman, shoe designer and founder of Stuart Weitzman, Inc. The $2 million dollar creation is studded with over 185-carats of tanzanites and 28-carats of diamonds. The evening sandal competed with entries from over twenty countries and is believed to be the first ever shoe design embellished with tanzanite.

The collaboration by the two designers, each a leader in their fields with a deep passion for designing the perfect accessory for their collectors, took place in Le Vian's® New York Headquarters.

Eddie LeVian utilized a design concept similar to his straight line, channel set diamond tennis bracelet for the front strap of the shoe. A concept from the Le Vian Couture® Collection offered inspiration for the anklet which features an intricate, handcrafted 18k white gold basket setting micro-pavé with diamonds. The delicate ankle bracelets contain museum quality, oval, cushion-cut and tear drop shaped tanzanites ranging from 6 to 16 carats! Each ankle bracelet features a spectacular 16-carat tear drop tanzanite that dangles decadently from the front of the ankle creating a spectacular red carpet look.

Stuart Weitzman used the frame of his bestselling "Dolce Vita" shoe as the base for the sexy stiletto evening sandal design. A clear strap provides a discreet backdrop for the stunning tanzanite, diamond and 18k white gold. An elasticized band for the foot strap is made of silvery glittering leather.

About Tanzanite

Tanzanite was discovered in Tanzania in 1967. It is found in only one place in the world, near the town of Arusha, deep in the foothills of Mount Kilimanjaro. Due to its unique crystal structure, tanzanite radiates three distinct colors of burgundy, violet and blue in a rare phenomenon known in the gem world as trichroism. This same exotic phenomenon causes each gem to have a varying mix of colors which becomes a challenge to match.
