May 4, 2009 - PRLog -- FI,USA,As with anything you do you really must be prepared. Prior planning prevents poor performance. So make sure you are looking good, smelling good and feeling good. Your personal hygiene really needs to be up to scratch, you must be wearing good clean clothes and your attitude needs to be right before you even begin. Once you have your grooming out of the way then the rest is in your mind. It is not unusual for a tall strong man to be super confident until it comes to talking to girls. You see it all the time they just go to water.

If you lack confidence then you really need to practice talking to girls. Don't try and pick them up. Make your objective conversation only. Say hello to every girl you see and you will soon discover that they are not like the Black Widow Spider and looking at eating you alive. Remember girls are looking to be picked up by guys who they are attracted to either physically, mentally or spiritually.

When you are confident enough to talk to a girl you are interested in go and speak to her. If you are in a dance club walk up and smile at her and ask her if she would like to dance. If she says no tell her that you are relieved she said no because you can't dance. If she laughs hang around and try talking with her. If she agrees to dance take her to the dance floor and dance away. It gives you the opportunity to talk into her ear while you are dancing because of the noise of the music.

After you have danced, or made her laugh if she knocks you back, offer to buy her a drink. You might have to get the waiter to bring it to you if she is concerned about a guy giving her an open drink, but it's worth the effort. Invite her to watch you get the drink if she is concerned about that. Once you have the drink sit back relax and talk to her like she was any other girl, just like the ones you were practicing on. Have fun with it and try to learn as much about her as you can. Girls love to talk so once you get her started; stopping her might be the hard part.

So there you have it a few tips on how to pick up girls that you can really use in any situation.
