

Launch of eGamingjobs.co.uk – the new player in eGaming recruitment

By eGamingjobs.co.uk

Dated: May 06, 2009

eGamingjobs.co.uk, the new player in eGaming recruitment is pleased to announce the official launch of its on-line job seeker and recruitment service.

eGamingjobs.co.uk was founded in 2008 by a group of senior on-line gaming professionals with the objective of providing a new and innovative on-line recruitment site and job board dedicated solely to the eGaming industry. The commission-free based approach of eGamingjobs.co.uk closes the loop between job seeker and recruiter and offers both parties a highly targeted and cost effective recruitment solution.

Each job seeker can register an account for free, build their profile, upload their CV, browse the latest vacancies, receive automated email job alerts and then apply directly on-line from their account to the recruiter.

eGamingjobs.co.uk also provide recruiters with a dedicated on-line account area that permits the operator to post and manage multiple job vacancies, handle candidate applications and responses and upload detailed job descriptions and application information. On-line registration is also free for recruiters and currently all job vacancy advertising is offered on a no fee basis until May 31st 2009.

Following registration a variety of recruitment and search tools are offered that allow an individual or company to take charge of their job search or recruitment campaign and find that perfect match.

Commenting on the announcement, Kristian Hayes, Marketing Director said: “On behalf of the team at eGamingjobs.co.uk I am delighted to announce our official launch. The on-line service went live back in September last year and to date we have secured agreements with several established eGaming operators and agencies. The response from job seekers from within the industry as well as candidates looking to enter the sector with strong cross-over skills has been very encouraging. We are confident that our collective industry experience combined with our commission-free based approach will see eGamingjobs.co.uk become a leading key player within eGaming recruitment.”
