If you are traveling outside of the United States this weekend for the Memorial Day long weekend, make sure that you purchase travel insurance to protect you and your family in the event of a sudden sickness or injury.

If you are traveling outside of the United States this weekend for the Memorial Day long weekend, make sure that you purchase travel insurance to protect you and your family in the event of a sudden sickness or injury.

It has been reported by AAA that despite the recession, the number of Americans traveling over the Memorial Day holiday will increase by approximately 1.5% this year with almost 32 million travelers taking a trip over 50 miles away from home. The swine flu and recession are not decreasing travel from the USA. There are lots of vacation bargains to be taken advantage of and now is a great time to travel.

TFG Global Insurance Solutions Ltd.'s President David Tompkins noted that "people should make sure that they purchase adequate travel insurance to cover emergency medical and evacuation expenses if they travel outside of the United States this Memorial day weekend. Medical emergencies can happen to healthy individuals, even on short trips across the boarder."

TFG operates the travel insurance web site TFG Global Travel Insurance.com at:

People traveling can purchase travel insurance online via their travel insurance supplier's online quote and purchase systems. Policies can be purchased with a credit card and the clients receive a confirmation of coverage via the web site and also by email.

People who are traveling over 100 mile from home may also wish to purchase a trip cancellation and interruption insurance policy from TFG Global Travel Insurance. A sickness or injury may keep you or your traveling companion from traveling a result in a significant financial loss if you have to cancel your non-refundable tickets or tour. We offer these policies online via:
