

Infonetica announce launch of Online GCP Training for USA

By Infonetica

Dated: May 21, 2009

Infonetica is happy to announce the launch of a US online GCP training satisfying ICH and FDA criteria, which are essential to Good Clinical Practice regulations.

Infonetica is continuing its global quest to support and facilitate clinical research internationally under the established "OnlineGCP" brand. With its latest effort, it is happy to announce the launch of a US online GCP training (<http://www.onlinegcp.com>) satisfying ICH and FDA criteria, which are essential to Good Clinical Practice regulations. It adds to the UK and International GCP training courses available, thereby, covering one more major clinical research region in the world.

Following Infonetica's traditional practical approach, it has included a full set of functionalities on the training's website, so one could find various information, try the demos, examine any relevant documentation, register, and do the training without having to leave the website.

The new US ICH-GCP training features all of Infonetica's traditional advantages: affordability, accessibility, flexibility, efficiency, and certification. Ultimately, it is suitable for starters looking for a career in clinical research, as well as experienced field professionals.

###

Infonetica LTD
Newark Beacon
Beacon Hill Office Park
Cafferata Way
Newark
NG24
2TN

<http://www.onlinegcp.com>

Category Education, Health, Research
Tags gcp, good clinical practice, course, Training, Online, Research, trial, Health, medicine, science,
Education
Email Click to email author
Country United Kingdom