Privilege Solutions Integrated, a BC-based publishing firm announces the launch of its recently published book title: “How to Prepare to Own a Home in Canada, Recession-proof Lifestyle for Immigrants and First-time Buyers” written by Sheila Atienza.

The book presents integrated ideas and guideline on how newcomers to Canada as well as aspiring homeowners should look at their personal finance, establish credit, handle resources and understand various aspects of mortgages, in order to qualify and be a homeowner in time.

Author Sheila Atienza who is also Realtor and Mortgage Broker based in British Columbia, says, “There’s indeed a need for people to look at their home buying plans closely and the efforts to seriously prepare, as some mortgage applicants are not aware of their financial position, whether they are qualified or risky borrowers.”

“Banks and lenders in Canada have strict guidelines in approving of applications, particularly in terms of borrower’s income and credit. The ongoing economic crisis should have given us awareness of the impact of our financial lifestyle”, adds Sheila, who also wrote the book, “You are Privileged, 12 Success Principles to Uncover Your Innermost Potential”.

Copies of the book “How to Prepare to Own a Home in Canada, Recession-proof Lifestyle for Immigrants and First-time Buyers” will be available in the global market through Ingram, the world's largest wholesale book distributor.

Participating booksellers are Chapters.indigo.ca (Canada’s biggest bookstore), Amazon.com (US largest online retailer), Barnes and Noble, and other select bookstores worldwide.
