A Cyprus Holding Company can also provide a strong privacy and ensure asset protection for any equity or property in the Holding Company, it makes it entirely difficult for any creditors or others to access the assets on the Holding company even if the dividend from the subsidiary just has been transferred to it.

Many investors and private businesses have Holding companies in Cyprus due to tax savings, asset protection and privacy of their business activities and beneficial owners. When considering a Cyprus Company Formation and to have a Holding Company structure, it is important that the Holding company is registered first of, once the registration has taken place the subsidiary can be registered, the company formation in Cyprus is easy and hassle free and if you place the order of the company formation at the same time you will avoid any confusion or delays.

Once both company formations in Cyprus are in place you will need to open a bank account in Cyprus for both of the companies which are typically handled by the Cyprus Company Formation Agency which also is handling the incorporation for you. The opening of Cyprus bank accounts is also not any difficult has just a few requirements which need to be in place, for instant you will need to have the original banking application send to the bank and a reference letter is required, you can obtain a reference letter from a current bank, a certified accountants or a lawyer just from one of those, make sure it is in English.

If you already have a Offshore company registered others then in Cyprus, you can even use this for the registration of a new company in Cyprus, this is also not complicated and only requires you to provide the corporate documents in English for such company to your Cyprus Company Formation Agency, even with this constellation the Cyprus company will be able to open a bank account in Cyprus, again it just requires a reference letter and a few other documents.
