

Celebrating Women - Book Launch

By Michelle Hayward

Dated: Jul 03, 2009

Mother of 9 launches new women's forum 'Celebrating Women' and her debut novel 'Falling'!

Mother of 9, and freelance writer and designer, Michelle Hayward is about to self-publish her first novel due for release soon. Michelle has made the first five chapters of her Chicklit novel available to the public to read at <http://michellehayward.blogspot.com> and is currently running a competition to Name That Novel. (The competition closes July 1st, 09 at 5.00 pm). Writing Feature Articles for Connect2Mums the interactive magazine at <http://connect2mums.ning.com> is also a passionate pastime for her, as well as updating her 10 blogs.

Noticing a niche in the world of women celebrating their lives Michelle created a forum for women about women! Celebrating Women was born to establish a support network for women from all walks of life because we wear many hats and juggle many balls.

WHO SAID WE CAN'T HAVE IT ALL!? We are creating life tapestries out of all that is beautiful! This is about celebrating diversity, motherhood, work, home-life, and creating your life's tapestry your own unique way! It is about inspiration! Celebrating Women is giving every woman a reason to celebrate who she is, no matter what age or stage she is at! <http://celebratingwomen.ning.com> We want to help women 'explode' their lifestyle!

Michelle is a student of nursing and childbirth education who has a passion for working with youth projects and as such has set up JAM - a place where the unemployed can advertise their skills for FREE ... and Graffiti Art to assist Graffiti Artists to take their art off the street and put it onto streetwear, under their own labels. You can read more about Michelle's Youth works at the following blog and see product at our online shop:-

<http://joblessandmultitalented.blogspot.com> and www.cafepress.com/grafityart.

Michelle and husband Peter, as well as being the parents of a large brood, own and operate two businesses in Interior Design & Graphic Art. They are the Designers of corporate branding for clothing, resort wear, home wares, gifts, souvenirs and promotional merchandise, most of which is based around their passion for the Hunter Valley, despite being residents of Queensland.

You can find out more about their products and services at:

<http://houseofvintner.blogspot.com>

<http://abodiumdesigns.blogspot.com>

Michelle is also keeping an online pregnancy diary up to date, and is proud to announce that she is expecting her tenth child in February 2010. You can share her journey at <http://2LittleHands2LittleFeet.blogspot.com>

Michelle is a Blogstar, writer, designer, lover of books, fine wine, food and expensive jewellery, reader of books, keeper of secrets, holder of hearts... domestic goddess, business owner, work-aholic, shop-aholic, insomniac ... brainiac (sometimes...), homework research assistant, makeup artist (in a previous life), novelist, and true romantic at heart. She is a self-confessed coffee addict who is ruled by chocolate...a capricorn...leading busy living life and sharing it in all its glory at <http://haywardhomestead.blogspot.com>

Category Books, Publishing, Advertising

Tags celebrating women, michelle hayward, connect2mums, falling, house of vintner, abodium, phd2, peter hayward

Email Click to email author

Country Australia