VoIP with cell phones has arrived as center stage, is here to stay and will only grow in popularity. Global Verge, working with Buzzirk Mobil and Zero1 has launched with unlimited calling to 42 countries. Global Verge asks for no contract or credit

VoIP with cell phones was introduced to the world by Global Verge, Gloval Verge has brought us the first ever VoIP with cell phones, allowing us to talk unlimited to 42 countries at a flat rate. One of the many appealing about this service is, they ask that customers sign no contracts and they don't require a credit check. On top of that, Global Verge is offering to allow customers to share in the financial rewards. Global Verge has set up a affiliate program, allowing customers to earn free cell phone service by referring just eight friends. Buy paying e associates ten dollars a month each time a person they have referred pays there personal bill for service.

This is the first ever VoIP with cell has been successfully launched in the United States. In this economy and the rate jobs are being lost, this is a real service that many people need. With bad credit on the rise and employment in a free fall, international calling that pays people for encouraging other to give the service a test drive. One might take a step back and think about two questions. If they really was a company that could offer, Unlimited minutes, no contract and no credit check think there might be a market for that service? Second, think that might be a good business idea in this economy?
