Marq Jeffrey: Cancer Didn't Stop Her Rise to the Home Business Pinnacle via Her Unique Business Models

Marq Jeffrey, a successful entrepreneur was hit hard with the "death sentence" After working so hard to build a successful clothing company she was on her way to the top, bringing in seven figures in the first quarter. All her efforts were finally paying off and then she got the news. "You have stage four cancer, go home and make your funeral arrangements."

A true entrepreneur, instead of giving up she simply decided to fight and after selling everything, staged the fight of her life. It would be the comeback of all comebacks. It took some time and was very expensive but she did prevail.

Knowing that the brick and mortar business wasn't going to work anymore and also realizing she would need to make some money and fast, she set out into the world of Internet opportunities. After some trials and tribulations she found out that the failure rate experienced in Network marketing, Direct sales and MLM could be directly attributed to lack of mindset, knowledge and marketing skills and that most companies were not proficient at providing this training to their membership or associates.

She decided to use her entrepreneurial skills to show victims of these archaic systems that they could be successful. To show people who have fallen victim to the economy that they could stage their own comebacks with the help of a new innovative concept in home business excellence.

"These times require needed changes and I can show individuals quickly how to create a lucrative income working out of their home office with no boss and the personal freedom that is part of being a successful entrepreneur," said Marq Jeffrey.

Marq Jeffrey is a resident of Canada with an education in Business Management and as a Personal Development Coach. She now also helps other entrepreneurs to work successfully from home. "A true life story of rising from the death sentence to entrepreneurial success working from the comfort of my own home and still making the income I used to enjoy through my business." said Jeffrey, "but with the economic decline combined with the failure rate in the industry, I knew I had to do something to help those people as well." Personal Development has always been a part of my life with my background and I looked at the Industry in detail and saw a growth pattern worldwide I wanted to be involved with as nearly $700 billion in Self Improvement books were sold in the year 2005 and that combined with working with folks to help fight the industry attrition rate, I have the perfect storm business solution that is generating a lot of excitement with the following offerings:

Once the fundamentals are in place the offering expands with intensive immersion boot camps designed to create masters at making money. No one has put a program as unique and effective as this one. Entrepreneurial development is one of the key factors in success working from home and this continuity program is pumping out many top earners. Marq recommends these particular ventures as they help build her business and are great offerings. There is something for everyone from Health and Wellness products to simple to market opportunities that won't break the bank to get started."With at least 600,000 individuals getting into the home business arena this year, many of them will lose their shirts because of the unscrupulous individuals that are preying on these people right now. Now is the time for people to be careful and make sure they are working with someone they can trust. "What it takes to be successful is product offerings that are simply WORLD CLASS designed to produce WORLD CLASS results for the people who desperately want to change their lot in life both financially and physically ..."

Marq Jeffrey is aggressively expanding her marketing efforts on a worldwide basis and anxious to talk to all entrepreneurs ready to locate a secure long term home based opportunity. "I offer the Best Situation one can find in the Home Based Employment Sector," said Jeffrey, "as I offer needed products that are easy to market with compensation plans that offer long term residual incomes with world class training and support through an innovative new entrepreneur development program. The business models are very easy to learn and have the freedom to work from home and enjoy the time to pursue a cause close to my heart....cancer research. Life offers choices and most choices for so many are very limited due to the job market meltdown and financial losses that have been part of this decade I made the right choice and if you look at what I offer you will find this is a choice you won't want to pass on."
