The Inukshuk is the symbol of the Winter Olympics in Canada. On our website, you will discover our most original handmade earrings and bracelets with delicately cut out designs in gold and copper plating with the Native Inukshuk design. Inukshuk pronounced "Ee-nook-shook" is the Inuit word meaning "In the Image of Man". Groups of stacked stones usually in human form have been used by the people of the North for thousands of years. Built along treeless horizons, these landmarks helped travelers navigate on land and water. These beacons of the North have now been adapted as symbols of friendship, reminding us that we all depend on one another.

During the Winter Olympics, the artisans of Copper Reflections offer unique gifts and handmade jewelry for your loved ones in Northwest Coast Native American jewelry and Northwest Indian jewelry designs. Northwest Native American Indian jewelry is offered in a vast selection of Native eagle, salmon, wolf, bear, native totem sun mask, beaver, frog, raven and more. What makes these Northwest Native jewelry designs exceptional is that each design has a Native Indian story relating to them. These Native stories relating the old and ancient culture of the North American Indians give special meaning to each unique jewelry piece. Copper Reflections handmade jewelry will make valuable and memorable jewelry gifts for everyone to enjoy and treasure for years to come.

Northwest Native American Indian jewelry designs are first hand drawn and transferred to copper sheets. These beautiful Northwest Native designs are individually silver plated and diamond cut by hand to bring out the luster in the copper to give that special sparkle like diamonds. Most of our handcrafted jewelry are cut out meticulously by hand using jewelers shears. Native American jewelry is available in a great selection with many designs and styles in handmade earrings, handmade bracelets, Northwest Native Indian necklaces, pins, brooches, locketts, rings and hair clips, with Northwest American Native jewelry themes. In our Native jewelry collection you can be sure to find a special gift for your loved ones, unique gift ideas for women with Northwest Native American jewelry themes. You will love other jewelry styles where we have used seashells, mother of pearl and abalone shells, to accent and highlight our unique Native American jewelry designs. We use a variety of techniques to make our Native jewelry including etching, embossing and engraving. Enjoy our unique jewelry collections that we have been working hard for over 24 years to make it even more beautiful for you.

We can also custom make your unique jewelry designs for you on earrings, bracelets, rings and necklaces. Please contact us for details.
