Ghost Furniture, now famous for bringing quality furniture back from the dead and making it hauntingly beautiful, is fast running out of space. To make room for new, much more affordable lines we are selling absolutely everything on our website at Half Price.

Northumberland, UK (August 2009). Launched in 2008 by Di Overton and Harvey Roll, former owners and founders of wheredidyoubuythat.com, Ghost Furniture was at the forefront of eco-chic design. Taking vintage finds from the flea markets and brocantes of France and turning them into new and beautiful items with a touch of 21st century eco-chic.

Ghost Furniture has been featured in the press and online worldwide. Seen in The Times, The Daily Mail, on Apartment Therapy and numerous blogs and magazines.

Di Overton says: It's time to take the economic situation seriously and recognise that people are looking for more affordable furniture and accessories for the home but still want something unique. After scouring Europe for specialist paints to speed up the renovation process we are now confident that we can produce unique pieces at prices the public demand.
