And with an architecture plan in place designed specially for your physique, then you can very well be the next king khan dancing with your six pack

Here are 5 steps to building muscles and gaining weight fast.

1. Planning your mass Gain Program according to your norms

This is very important because not all techniques might not suit you, so always should have a self emphasis on the sequence of events that you are going to follow.

You should have a workout routine that exercises every other day to give time for your muscles to relax.

2. Consuming a Solid Weight Gain Diet

Your diet should have higher amount of proteins as they say proteins are the building blocks of a muscular body.

3. Using only Proven Bodybuilding Supplements

This is very important because the consequences of using cheap or unproven supplements might prove you costly as these are unhealthy and might also cause future problems, so take my advice prohibit such usage.
