Oct. 8, 2009 - PRLog -- You've got to understand the basics of trading. I suspect that most of the people that have heard of price action, and yet haven't traded it, were likely intimidated with the idea. It's probably because it's a bit more discretionary than what they are so used to. They'd just wish to blindly follow one of their many indicators. The Forex trading strategy enclosed, is one that is proven to make money and many of the Earth's top traders use it yet, few new traders consider it but that's of no real worry the bulk of beginner traders lose money. Let us take a look at this straightforward Forex trading strategy for success. One of the most obvious things you'll see, when studying Forex charts is that, Forex prices trend for many weeks or months, in a sustained direction.

If you can lock into these trends and hold them, you can make enormous gains but you must know how they begin and continue to try this. You can get more info about Exotic Forex Trading and Gann Forex Trading at our site. However I want to share some techniques that have worked for me, in hopes that you will learn from my experience. As a new trader, I started with a demo account and used basic techniques like technical research and other fundamentals. These signals essentially worked, if I was obedient enough to follow the signals, whether I approved of each signal or not. I shortly learned that the company had a winning streak for the past 2 years, unlike myself. A signal provider was such a great fit for me that shortly, I had a steady flow of cash coming from the currency market and I opened another account.

I realized that the market modified on simple speculation and that this speculation was based primarily on news events, eg shop sales. Another engaging fact that I learned was that the market peaked at the precise moment that major news events were released. The method was to simply wait until the exact moment the news was due out. The trick to this strategy is executing the trade at the right time and disciplining yourself to keep your stop-loss awfully tight, for example making it no more than 10 pips. If you make the trade too early or too late, you might fail to predict the direction of the market and lose money. Then, find a good forex signal provider and watch the news to forecast the precise moment to execute your trade.

Then, be sure to execute that trade only about fifteen seconds before the news hits. If you want a simple Forex trading method which makes massive gains in around thirty mins a day and is really easy to learn, then the one enclosed is for you. If you look at any currency trend, you'll see that new trends start from breakouts to new market highs and continue there trend from them. Breakout trading simply trades the actuality of price change and most traders can't do this.
