

MEN: 3 Steps To Avoid Getting Rejected By Women

New "Stealth Attraction" report reveals how to meet and attract women and avoid the dreaded rejection altogether.

Oct. 28, 2009 - PRLog -- In a groundbreaking new report on how men can avoid being rejected, Richard La Ruina (aka Gambler) has gone deeper than other guys on how to make 3 slight shifts to your methods of approaching women that virtually guarantee you will not have to face rejection.

There is a lot of well thought out theory in the new Rejection Report which is sure to become a best seller (but is free for now). This theory is important to understand the shifts in your game.

1. Run A Pattern COUNTER To What She Expects

When a woman is expecting a certain response, behaviour or action on your part, one that she knows 99% of guys will run, you can increase arousal, and completely avoid forcing a rejection decision, by running the opposite behaviour.

2.Run A Pattern that Is Pleasurable And/Or Familiar To Her.

The principle here is that while there are countless negative patterns she has associated with guys who have approached her in the past, and if you repeat their behaviours, you get slotted as one of them and her resistance goes through the roof...There are also familiar patterns to her that she enjoys.

3. "The Effort Effect"

And it's a big one. The "effort effect" principle states that the higher your perceived level of effort output, the higher your chances of rejection/dismissal.

These simple and subtle nuances can make the difference between rejection and success.

Richard La Ruina, who goes by the name "Gambler" in some circles authored the report and has just released it for worldwide distribution. He is the owner of PUA Training and has coached thousands of men in how to improve their social lives and dating success.
