

The word spreads fast when the music is fresh and here's the new 411 on BreakBeat Energy Records!

By BreakBeat Energy LLC

Dated: Nov 08, 2009

Following Bounder Sound System's House track "Redux" and soundFLUX's second Breaks track "Give It To Me" is the BBE003 E.P. that presents an eclectic mix of House and Breakbeat tracks by Jason Godfrey, Bombshelter Lifestyle, and soundFLUX.

The House track, "Open Ended" by Jason Godfrey, offers up some classic House flavor with a modern twist. A clean propelling synth line is sure to set the mood for the most demanding clubs.

The Bombshelter Lifestyle remix lifts the house chords from Jason Godfrey's original and spaces them out into a deep, heady groove over a rolling bassline. Warm pads and a meditative breakdown round out the tune for a perfect late-night vibe.

"Let The Hammer Blow", another Breakbeat release by soundFLUX settles into a chunky groove coupled with a beefy rolling bassline. The buildup releases it's energy making this track a nice opener to any Breakbeat or House set.

In December we look forward to the upcoming releases from Primitive Technology the BBE004 E.P.; their track "Punk Console" and the dubby remix of soundFLUX's "Let The Hammer Blow" is sure to provide a fresh sound to BreakBeat Energy Records' repertoire so stay tuned in for more information on these two tracks.

Following closely behind Primitive Technology's releases is the BBE005 E.P. containing a Progressive House collaboration effort from Bounder Sound System and soundFLUX titled "Shamrok". Digging deeper into the files and hard drives of BreakBeat Energy Records, we discover more releases due to hit MP3 shops spanning the realms of Progressive House, Electro House, Breaks, and more with a not to miss remix by the man himself, J Hazen!

Although 2009 is winding down, it is evident that BreakBeat Energy Records is kicking things into high gear!
