

Clickbank Pirate™ Just Another Clickbank Code or SCAM? Phil Miranda explains

By Phil Miranda

Dated: Nov 09, 2009

The Clickbank Pirate in some circles has been compared to the Clickbank Code or some of the many Clickbank products that are all over the internet claiming superiority over one another in helping newbie marketers gain an edge using Click bank.

Phil Miranda states that by first impressions the Clickbank Pirate's landing page is reminiscent of the famous "Pirates of The Caribbean" movie poster with a character on the page that resembles its lead actor Johnny Depp, yet with all of the fluff and hyped up sales page tactics put aside the Clickbank Pirate according to Phil Miranda is packed with informative techniques on how to start and operate a very lucrative Clickbank affiliate portal with very little, if at all technical knowledge, which is the main purpose why the Clickbank Pirate was created.

The Clickbank Code and the Clickbank Pirate have somewhat been either confused or compared to each other respectively, but says Phil Miranda both the Pirate system and Code product are different in many aspects in particular the Clickbank Code was created by Michael Jones and the Clickbank Pirate's creators are Soren Jordansen & Cindy Battye.

Automation, and Turnkey are words usually touted to entice newbie internet marketers, yet in this case Phil Miranda explains the Clickbank Pirate lives up to the claim in helping the aspiring affiliate run and operate a completely turnkey system that has all of the bells and whistles in place in order to dominate any Clickbank niche online.

What makes the Clickbank Pirate system so intriguing as well states Phil, is the fact that Soren Jordansen & Cindy Battye have so much confidence in their product, and system the Clickbank Pirate, that they have a 60 day (2 month) no questions asked, full money back guarantee.

Phil Miranda reiterates that the Clickbank Pirate turnkey system, should at the very least be given a test drive by anyone considering venturing into earning a respectable online living in becoming a successful affiliate, not just utilizing the Clickbank Pirate system, but with any affiliate system or product as well.
