

Where Fashion meets Philanthropy

November 26th marks the date where Toronto's own Due West Clothing and Canada Goose will hold a fundraiser in support of Polar Bears International

Nov. 19, 2009 - PRLog -- Toronto, ON - On Thursday November 26th, please join us at The Danforth's favourite restaurant, The Local Company to help keep our bears on ice - supporting Polar Bears International. Not your average fashion show or fundraiser. Due West and Canada Goose invite you to sip on cocktails, listen to great music, enjoy some canapés, bid on the Canada Goose Outerwear and fine-art photography by Marni Gossman: all while raising funds and awareness for Polar Bears International.

"I am really pleased to know I am supporting this worldwide initiative to support the Polar Bears International organization," says George Moumouris, founder and owner of Due West. "It gives me great gratification knowing that fashion can give the opportunity of awareness for research and education on the worldwide conservation of the polar bears."

Join us for an evening of fashion and philanthropy

About Polar Bears International: Polar Bears International (PBI) is a nonprofit organization dedicated to conserving the world's polar bears through research and education. Its purpose is to inspire, inform, and empower people to make a difference. Today, the organization spans the globe with its headquarters in Canada and branches in the U.S.A. and Australia. PBI views the polar bear as a charismatic species that serves as a symbol for the Far North. The all-volunteer organization features an Advisory Council that includes top scientists from the five polar bear nations: Canada, Denmark, Norway, Russia, and U.S.A., as well as zoo professionals, educators, wildlife photographers, and marketing specialists. PBI recognizes that time is running out for the polar bear—but emphasizes that it's not too late.

About The Local Company: A uniquely designed 3100 sq ft loft-style, contemporary space authentic to Toronto. Local encompasses North American cuisine and a diverse music style which fuse perfectly together to create the ultimate social destination. Taking its inspiration from the quintessential art galleries of New York combined with natural elements, Local has three main areas of the design: the main dining area, the lounge, and the loft which are all beautifully unified by the palatial ceiling and a prevailing exposed brick wall. Local caters to the hybrid food and drink aficionado; those who wish to experience an entire night out, by subtly transforming from a restaurant to an after dinner affair
