SAVANNAH, Ga. – Saber Security & Investigation, LLC, a leading full-service security company with offices in Savannah and Atlanta, offers a wide range of customized security solutions for companies of every size.

“We know that security is a serious issue, but we understand that every client has unique needs,” said company president Erica A. Lumpert, who has more than 15 years of experience in the security industry. “We tailor each job to the client, but we always make security a priority.”

Saber Security opened an office in Savannah in May of 2009 and serves a wide range of clients ranging from the City of Savannah to various fraternities and sororities at Georgia Southern University in Statesboro, Ga. A member of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, the company provides 24-hour protection services with fully qualified and state-certified security officers throughout Georgia.

In addition to providing a well-trained workforce of security officers and roving patrols who are available for short-term or long-term client needs, Saber Security excels at developing innovative security strategies for local companies.

The company also offers executive protection, air and freight security and high-value escorts. By using the latest security technology, Saber Security conducts background checks, pre-employment screenings, investigations and asset checks and also installs and monitors state-of-the-art security systems.

“Security should be the first thing on a company’s budget, because it can prevent significant losses,” said Lumpert. “Security pays for itself because it stops loss and keeps workers and products safe.”

Saber Security has provided security in many different industry sectors, from universities to industrial plants, and maintains strict OSHA safety standards. In the wake of 9/11, the company understands the important role that security plays on a local, corporate and national level.

Over the years, the company’s principals have provided top-notch security for leading clients like British Airways, Lane Bryant, the Hartsfield–Jackson Atlanta International Airport and the American Idol auditions. Saber Security currently oversees and staffs security initiatives for City of Savannah, IHOP Restaurant, the Newell Recycling Plant and many other local companies.

In recent months, Saber Security has formed several strategic alliances, expanding its services and offering an even broader menu of security-related solutions for clients.

The company has partnered with RGP Attorney Services LLC, Robinson Security Consultancy and FocusGears to provide total solutions for customers. From legal support to operations analysis, Saber Security can handle a wide range of client needs and offer streamlined, full-service security solutions.

“We partner with certified consultants to ensure operational excellence and to foster a long-term working relationship with our customers,” said Lumpert. “The customer is always our focus. We pride ourselves on providing innovative solutions that fit each client's budget and needs.”
