

Social Graces: A Business Etiquette Workshop

This business etiquette workshop will demonstrate and practice the universal laws of etiquette that are necessary in building relationships and exuding confidence when in social or business environments.

Jan. 21, 2010 - PRLog -- We've heard the age-old adage of "actions speak louder than words"; and your actions are indeed the catalyst to your professional growth and accomplishment. Social etiquette is not an option when navigating the road to success – it's a necessary avenue for timely arrival.

On Saturday, February 27, 2010, LW Special Events will host the Social Graces Business Etiquette Workshop, a half-day live seminar, presented by Grace Lee, International Business and Etiquette Consultant, of Grace Lee International, Inc.

The Social Graces Business Etiquette Workshop will introduce participants to the social expectations of Western society and the exciting history from which it originated. The workshop will demonstrate and practice the universal laws of etiquette that are necessary in building relationships and exuding confidence when in social or business environments.

"Our fast-changing times have left behind the etiquette that tells us how to act in social situations," says Grace Lee, International Business and Etiquette Consultant and CEO of Grace Lee International. "We've forgotten the social graces and if you don't make a positive first impression, you may not get the chance to make a second. How you impress others determines whether they'll hire you; give you that promotion or investment capital; schedule a meeting or even a date."

The Social Graces Business Etiquette Workshop is limited to the first 50 registrants and will be held at the Courtyard by Marriott in Culver City, California 90230. Registration is $150.00 (regular $300.00) until February 6, 2010 as part of the pre-sales special. About: Grace Lee International is the brainchild of Grace Lee. Lee's experience spans more than two decades in international business. Born in Japan and educated in Asia and the U.S., she's bilingual and equally at home in both cultures. Lee has worked with American and Asian firms to set up profitable businesses on both sides of the ocean while always honoring the host country's culture and traditions.

As an internationally recognized business and etiquette consultant for corporations such as 3M, Exxon, American Airlines, Takeda Pharmaceuticals, and the Hiroshima Chamber of Commerce, she's known for her expertise in forgotten social graces. She has given popular workshops in Japan, including "How to Market in the U.S." and "Western Business Etiquette," and she has helped American companies set up successful operations in Japan and manufacturing in Asia.
