New Office Location in Vancouver Makes Services Available in Northern Oregon

Northwest Home Improvement Company, a local family-owned and operated quality replacement window company, has opened a second office in Vancouver, Wash. to provide services for northern Oregon. Services are now available in Oregon as far south as Salem.

“We are excited to move into the Oregon market and work with customers throughout the Portland area,” says Tom Gion, President of Northwest Home Improvement Company, “Although the recession is not the ideal time to be growing, we are all settled and it has been a highly successful expansion.”

Northwest Home Improvement Company previously held one head office in Lakewood, Wash. and serviced only western Washington. Since the expansion to Oregon, Northwest Home Improvement Company has also been expanding east and now services much of eastern Washington in addition to the western market.

Northwest Home Improvement Company features the WeatherPro Window line, a revolutionary new window designed to withstand the extreme moisture typical of the Northwest region. Rigid standards of quality control and a combined commitment to the environment ensure the windows are manufactured to meet all guidelines proposed by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and qualify for the energy tax rebate.

In addition to selling and installing replacement vinyl windows, Northwest Home Improvement Company also installs energy-efficient replacement vinyl siding and patio covers.
