

Baby Swags Clients Help Mark Wahlberg Welcome his Fourth Child, Margaret Grace

New celebrity parents, Rhea Durham and Mark Wahlberg are sent gifts from mom-entrepreneurs.

Feb. 19, 2010 - PRLog -- Plainfield, IL - Baby Swags had the pleasure of sending gifts to new parents Rhea Durham and Mark Wahlberg who welcomed their daughter Margaret Grace on January 11, 2010. Included items consisted of hand-crafted, mom-inspired and mom-invented products proven to be top of the line, boutique quality, must-haves.

Baby Swags has been a leading Celebrity Gifting company since its 2006 inception. The company has been able to provide support and recognition to hundreds of small based, mom-entrepreneurial businesses.

Company's that have used Baby Swags for celebrity placements have had many positive results such as gift lounge exposure, celebrity sightings, national print and media exposure, celebrity thank you notes and some companies have even received personal phone calls from various celebrities. Baby Swags also supports many national and local charities. Their most recent charitable contributions came from a celebrity signed puzzle piece auction in association with their gift lounge, The Rockin Lollipop Lounge.

All proceeds benefited Act Today! charity for Autism Awareness.

“Our clients remember “Marky-Mark” and jumped at the chance to provide their products to his new little baby girl”, states Phyllis Pometta, founder of Baby Swags. He was known as “Marky Mark” in his earlier years and became famous when he debuted as a rap musician. Since then, Mark Wahlberg has starred in numerous films such as The Renaissance Man, Boogie Nights, The Perfect Storm, The Departed, The Happening and more recently, The Lovely Bones.
