Feb. 21, 2010 - PRLog -- gWebTools was a site created two years ago the main goal of the site was and remains to provide tools useful and easy to use for webmasters and network administrators. The site is growing rapidly, its access is increasing daily, the tools are also becoming better and more complete. Formerly the site was only available in English today is also available in Portuguese and German.

Among all the tools we can highlight some of the whois as it is one of the most used site. Initially, this tool performed a simple whois query, but over time has been improved and today incorporates many different features such as viewing page rank, keyword score, web sites on the same server and others.

The whois tool to incorporate the most useful information for webmasters on a specific area, without that they have to make several queries in different locations.

Every day we receive several e-mails, praises, criticisms, improvements. Among the finest tools are of the port scanner and subnet calculator, both tools are extremely useful in day-to-day life of a network administrator and make their lives easier by not having to be installed.

Last year we decided to create a daring name sever spy, where you can find all domains that are in a given nameserver. For now our tool supports only to zone .com and .net but soon will support new zones, we are one of the few to offer this service for free.

The future is uncertain, but we can guarantee is that we seek to optimize and improve our services every day, creating new tools and increasing old ones.

For this we need your support, the best way for you to do this is to promote our site showing it to friends.
