The Law Offices of Michael S. Discioarro, LLC announced today the opening of a new website to assist those accused of felony dwi charges.

If you have been arrested for a felony DWI DUI in New York, you can face serious consequences. This means that it is at least your second DWI arrest. Courts and prosecutors frown upon these types of arrests because of the danger these types of drivers pose to the public safety."Judges do not want to let someone back on the road when they have a pattern of drunk driving. Jail is a real possibility." Mr. Discioarro said. The maximum penalty for a second dwi arrest is three years in state prison. This is in addition to fines and court costs. The worst part is that prosecutors will not even consider a plea bargain because they think this is just a driver who should not be on the road. Usually, judges will set bail on those charged with a felony DUI. This can cause a serious hardship if a person cannot make bail. That means that the person will stay in jail until the case is resolved. The one upside of these types of arrests is that those accused can testify before the grand jury and try to convince them not to indict him. This should only be done with the assistance of an experienced felony dwi lawyer. The new website can be viewed at <http://www.nyfelonydwi.com>.
