

HoustonOverheadDoor.com Provides Houston With A Full Range Of Garage Door Services

The garage door company has served the Houston area for years in both the commercial and residential sectors. They have experience servicing all kinds of doors and brands that make them Houston's first choice.

June 30, 2010 - PRLog -- Locally owned and operated Houston Overhead Door had been providing the Houston area with garage door sales, installation and service for years and continues to build their reputation by providing their customers with excellent service and the lowest prices on the market. The company specializes in working with Clopay and Amarr doors, the two most popular brands in the industry but has experience and can provide services for nearly any garage door.

In addition to servicing most brands of garage doors, Houston Overhead Door wide range of services include work and repair for both residential and commercial customers. Garage doors for use in the commercial arena are different than doors for homes and other residential settings as they're usually larger and get more use so they must be more durable. Residential customers for Houston Overhead Door tend to be more concerned with the aesthetics of their garage door. This can include customized wood doors or carriage doors that change the look of the home by adding a sense of traditional design. Another service that Houston Overhead Door is known for is modifying single two stall garages by turning them into a single stall, one door garage, allowing the homeowners some additional freedom and versatility with their garage.

Houston Overhead Door's wide range of services backed by their years of experience make them the city's leading provider of garage door sales, installation and service. Their technicians have the knowledge to service any type of garage door in any type of setting for an affordable price.
