

Draco, the free online browser MMORPG. Your life for the Hive.

Developer Evolution Vault revealed today their new pet project.

July 8, 2010 - PRLog -- Evolution Vault, developer of online browser games (Xeno) and free war games (Asgard Heroes), revealed today their new pet project called Draco, a free browser-based MMORPG.

The story of the game is that the Avatar has awakened and ascended into space, searching for fresh blood. Highly efficient killers with the sole purpose of consuming all living, "the Avatars are a symbiotic species which assimilated millions of hosts throughout the galaxy, in order to thrive and be able to modify their surroundings." Bloodthirsty to the extreme, these predators will always seek out new ways to further evolve themselves and become more efficient killers. Welcome to Draco, a world of heroes and warlords, a world of endless possibilities!

"Say hello to the newest browser-based fantasy game from the inter web, stated Radu Soldan, CEO of Evolution Vault. As with all respected browser games, to play Draco all you need is your browser; no downloads are necessary. And the game is completely free! Get ready to start your journey to the stars and beyond in an epic quest of galactic conquest with the Zerg... pardon, the Avatar," added the developer of online browser games.

ABOUT DRACO

Draco is a sci-fi browser game which takes only 5 minutes to learn and can become extremely addictive with time. You can play discretely from work or school with your friends; or you can make new ones, online. The Draconians are destroyers of worlds, harbingers of death; you will love playing with them.
