July 12, 2010 - PRLog -- Are you having a difficult time paying off your debts? Are you being harassed by creditors, or are you in danger of losing your home or car? You are not alone!

Aurora Lillo Editor of the "Government Grants For Debt Relief" website --
<http://www.GovernmentGrantsForDebtRelief.org> -- pointed out;

“...In tough economic times like these there are many people in the same difficult position as yourself. However, believe it or not, the nation's leaders are here to help you! You can receive a FREE grant from the United States government that is in place specifically to help YOU pay off your debts..”

Interest free and no need to pay it back

The Fed does not want to see people spiral in to more and more debt. It is very bad for the economy when consumers are having a difficult time paying their bills because there is less money being pumped in to the economy. Our economy depends on consumer spending in order to run efficiently. With people strapped for cash because they are paying high interest charges on credit cards or ridiculous fees on other bills there is less money being spent on consumer goods. This leads to a bad economy getting worse. The grant from the government is interest free and THERE IS NO NEED TO REPAY it!! They would like for you to repay what you can, when you can, but they will not hassle you or ever even give you a phone call to ask for any of the money back!

You can use the grant for any debt

Every year the federal and state budgeters set aside billions of dollars to help out those in need. There are a wide variety of different categories that you can use federal grants for. These range from student loan grants to small business grants to middle income family grants. Most anybody with more debt than they can handle will be able to get some help from the government, this is because it is in everybodys best interest for consumers to not be overwhelmed with debts they can not pay off.

Avoid bad credit loans

“...Before you apply for a 'bad credit loan' make sure that you check out to see if you qualify for one of these grants!! You may think that consolidating your debts in to one bad credit loan will help you out, but often these loans require that you put up some sort of collateral that you risk losing, as well as charging hefty fees and interest rates. The government grants do not require any sort of collateral and charge no fees!! Check it out today...” added A. Lillo.
