The Makita 9000 is a commercial-grade flashlight with a rechargeable battery pack. After excessive use, you may find that the old battery in your Makita no longer holds a charge, or perhaps the battery drains down very quickly after recharging it. If this is the case, it's time to replace the Makita 9000's battery with a new one. Makita recommends ordering the replacement cordless power tools battery pack directly from them to ensure product compatibility.

Replace Instructions:

1 Charge your new battery using the Makita 9.6-volt "Fast Charger." Grab your Makita 9000 flashlight and the charged battery. Bring them to a table.

2 Push the power switch to "Off" before getting started. Grab the set plate on the bottom side of the flashlight shaft, and then pull it back to expose the old cordless drill battery.

3 Slide the old battery pack out with your fingers. Insert the new battery into the compartment. Line up the battery's "Tongue" with the indentation on the flashlight handle.

4 Slide the set plate back into place to snap it back on. Flip the power switch to "On" to test the flashlight.
