

Plan My Baby - Natural Gender Selection

Whether you are a first time parent or already have kids, having a baby never fails to bring a feeling of joy and excitement not just for the parents, but also for all the people around you.

Sept. 20, 2010 - PRLog -- Whether you are a first time parent or already have kids, having a baby never fails to bring a feeling of joy and excitement not just for the parents, but also for all the people around you. A father would normally opt for a baby boy, especially if it's the first, while the mother, most of the time, wants a girl. Now, with the help of the natural gender selection method parents can now choose their baby's gender. So let's say both parents agreed to have a baby boy.

There are several scientifically based ways and suggestions on how to have a baby boy. Having an intercourse prior to your ovulation period gives you more possibility of conceiving a baby boy. This is because, at this time, the male sperm is more likely to get to the female egg first.

In addition to that, there is evidence that a man wearing loose pants and reducing his activities, before attempting to conceive, also increases the chance of having a baby boy. Aside from that, one of the factors that decreases sperm counts are brought about by smoking and drinking. So for fathers who wants a boy, try to cut down on these vices, not just for the said purpose, but for your health sake too.

The mom's diet plays a big role in having a boy, as well. Having high calorie diet and more cereals during the first stage of pregnancy will give you more chances to have a son.

Of course, would be parents would want a healthy baby, it doesn't matter if it's going to be a boy or a girl. Mother's attitude and activity during pregnancy is vital to your child's health. But still for those moms and dads who still prefers to have a son, take note of the scientifically based recommendations mentioned on natural gender selection method.
