Oct. 19, 2010 - PRLog -- There are several WordPress auto post and autoblogging plugin software tools that have recently emerged which allows internet marketers to put their content building on autopilot. These products are great for creating content rich blogs for various niches that can be targeted specifically at a group of keywords.

These products will have a significant impact for internet marketers that decide to pursue this strategy. Using these products you can easily put up 2 or more new blogs per day and build an extensive network of highly keyword relevant niche market websites. And once they are set up, there is absolutely nothing else you need to do.

Most of the WordPress auto post and autoblogging plugin software tools provide ability to manage content from multiple content and monetization sources. So after setting up the overall theme and contact template for a website, and input your keywords to target, these tools will pump out new content with fully populated content and monetization pages on a schedule you define.

So every day, multiple times per day, or once per week, you will have new articles posted to your blog. Combine that with other automated tools like social bookmarking submissions, pings to RSS networks, blog pings, etc. and it really is a 100% hands off business.

There are several options for these tools, I am giving a high level overview for the following:

Autoblogged - Very nice product, has good content options, but limited monetization options.

Mage - The cadillac of the industry, very rich content options, but comes with a very high price tag of around $1000.

WP Robot - New player, innovative a la carte pricing model allows picking only the content modules you want. Great long term opportunity at a moderate price will get you unlimited license for all modules.

Others... there are several other WordPress auto post and autoblogging plugin software tools but the three listed above the favorites of most internet marketers.

This is a new wave of internet marketing and the early adopters of this technology will have an upper hand on other internet marketers in their niche markets.
