

TregoED Announces Strategic Leadership Award Winners

Three public school districts receive inaugural Benjamin B. Tregoe Award for Strategic Leadership in Education

PRINCETON, N.J. - Oct. 2, 2015 - PRLog -- TregoED (<http://www.tregood.org/>) is pleased to announce the 2015 recipients of its Benjamin B. Tregoe Award for Strategic Leadership in Education:

- Colorado Springs School District 11 (CO)
- Newton Conover City Schools (NC)
- Sewanhaka Central High School District (NY)

The award recognizes school districts, individuals or teams that have achieved significant and enduring results using TregoED tools for collaborative problem-solving and decision-making. Winning entries have been able to demonstrate successful resolution of a critical issue or problem and operational or systemic changes that have had lasting value.

Colorado Springs School District 11 received the award for its innovative use of root cause analysis in determining significant drivers of student achievement at the school level.

Newton-Conover City Schools is being recognized for its use of collaborative decision-making in making a critical hiring decision.

Sewanhaka Central High School District used collaborative decision-making on a systemic level in determining budget allocations and preparing for a successful bond referendum.

“All three of these districts have demonstrated their commitment to clear-sighted and courageous decision-making and problem-solving. They understand the value of collaboration and believe in what people can accomplish when given the tools and opportunity. We are so proud to work with these districts and their leaders in helping them achieve their strategic and operational goals.” Says Kathryn Blackburn, Executive Director of TregoED.

TregoED (<http://www.tregood.org/>) helps school districts achieve problem-solving and decision-making excellence using proven strategies which have reached over 15,000 education leaders in the U.S. and Canada. TregoED strategies are adapted from those developed by Kepner-Tregoe, an international consulting firm, who has worked with millions of government and Fortune 1000 leaders and employees in 44 countries for over 50 years.
