June 8, 2008 - PRLog -- Livonia, Mi --One of the biggest challenges for nearly every new small business is getting enough capital to sustain and grow during the first one to three years in business. And, while having enough capital is critical for survival, it's often hard to get.

There is now a way for business owners to tap into an important new source of business capital for owners with credit scores of more than 675, a new nationwide source of capital is available through <http://www.10stepstomoney.com>

Mark Maupin co-founder of the National Real Estate Network in Livonia, Michigan said, "The best of the best for giving you a step by step system to get a business line of credit is Pat Gage, the Opportunity Creator. I run a local real estate club in Michigan and Pat by far has the best system of any speaker we have had for getting business lines of credit."

Pat Gage was the main speaker on Business Lines of Credit, at a club meeting this month. He shared valuable information on how to have access to a number of lending institutions and banks who are ready, willing and waiting to lend businesses money. He also explained the importance of separating company assets from personal assets to safeguard one's personal credit score and personal assets. Pat discussed setting up a Corporation correctly, knowing all the business and licensing requirements, understanding the IRS requirements, setting up a Dun and Bradstreet business credit profile, creating the business vendor or trade credit accounts, acquiring unlimited unsecured business credit cards, transferring balances to improve a credit profile, understanding and using leasing credit, and obtaining unlimited unsecured business lines of credit, and learning how to lay the groundwork for future requests—getting more capital than anyone could even imagine for their business.

"Not a bad outcome for a guy who'd been doing the interest rate shuffle with Aunt Visa and Uncle MasterCard!" Pat exclaims.

"Investors and business owners who attended this event radically changed their credit building knowledge," said Mark Maupin. "I was impressed with Pat's knowledge and everything he shared. Many of the people who attended purchased his program."

Pat Gage, The Opportunity Creator, and a leading expert in the field of business credit has helped a number of clients target his specialty, starting, expanding, and growing their businesses through his trademarked 10 Steps to Money System. The Opportunity Creator is not only a sought after business credit coach but also a national speaker. For more information on any topic discussed, visit Gage's site at <http://www.10stepstomoney.com> this program works in all 50 states.
