

Sign the Marriage Certificate with a Feather Quill Pen

The wedding day is one of the most special occasions in a man or woman's life, and using a feather quill pen is a memorable way to sign the marriage certificate.

June 26, 2008 - PRLog -- The wedding day is one of the most special occasions in a man or woman's life, and using a feather quill pen is a memorable way to sign the marriage certificate.

A feather quill is usually made from goose feather with a metal dip nib at the end. The feathers can be dyed in various colours, although white is best suited to a wedding. The quill has had a long and illustrious history. It has been used in Europe since 700AD, and was used to write some of the Dead Sea Scrolls. The quill was also the pen chosen to sign the constitution of the United States of America.

Feather quill pens are made from genuine goose feathers, and dyed to give different coloured effects. Feather quill pen sets are available from an online pen specialist called Pen Heaven at http://www.penheaven.co.uk/Calligraphy_Sets.php. Sets are available with bottles of ink, pewter pen holders and stationery, starting at a retail price of £15.99.
