Precision Dynamics Corporation is named to 2008 “Healthcare Informatics Top 100 Companies” List

Company makes prestigious list 3rd year in a row making it the leading automatic patient wristband focused provider ranked by healthcare IT revenue

July 2, 2008 - PRLog -- Precision Dynamics Corporation (PDC), the global leader in automatic wristband identification solutions, has been ranked by Healthcare Informatics (HCI) as 56th in its list of the top 100 healthcare information technology providers in its 15th annual survey. PDC’s ranking is based on revenues from its Healthcare segment which grew 10% from 2006 to 2007.

“Precision Dynamics Corporation is once again honored to be named among the top 100 of IT Healthcare,” said Gary Hutchinson, PDC president & CEO. “As the pioneer of patient safety through positive patient identification, PDC is also proud to be the only patient wristband company to be recognized by Healthcare Informatics. This acknowledgement reflects PDC’s ongoing commitment to patient safety and leadership in the healthcare IT field, which we take very seriously.”

“For 15 years, the Healthcare Informatics 100 has been used by providers and vendors to identify significant companies in the healthcare IT industry,” said Anthony Guerra, editor-in-chief of Healthcare Informatics. “Those organizations that make the list demonstrate a strong commitment to delivering the best products and services.”
