Aug. 26, 2008 - PRLog -- Charles Tango a 22 year old Canadian college boy got a hair transplant surgery in India at Delhi and said good bye to his hair disorders. During his interview after his outpatient hair transplant surgery in India at Delhi he told that he was suffering from a condition called androgenetic alopecia also called male baldness since the age of 16 and the hairs of his fore head were getting vanished giving him a baldy look so after a time of six years he finally decided to get his hair transplant surgery at an Indian cosmetic surgery hospital because the price of hair transplant surgery in India was quite low and he wanted to tour the tourism spots of India through Indian medical tourism. The procedure of hair transplant surgery provided by the Indian cosmetic surgeon was of 3 hours and he placed synthetic, strong but natural looking hair follicles on the forehead of Charles and reshaped his hairstyle. After his hair transplant surgery Charles stayed for two nights at a hotel for watching the Taj Mahal and Kutub Minar that were one of the most wonderful Indian monuments.

Hair transplant surgery in India is a cosmetic surgery procedure that removes hair loss and hair disorders permanently by relocating bald resistant hair follicles from the back and sides of the head called the donor areas, to a person's bald or thinning areas. In the procedure of hair transplant surgery artificial hair called "hair follicles" are implanted on the head by means of internal stitching. The transplanted hair follicles grow hair for a lifetime because they are genetically resistant to baldness. Hair transplant surgery is considered all over to be a good surgical solution to yield beautiful natural hairlines for good looks. Hairs are important one of the most element of the human body. Hair loss and hair problems often reduces the good looks of a person and make him look older in age at an earlier time which can lead to low self-esteem and several downfalls in life socially, emotionally, and mentally. The most obvious benefits of getting a hair transplant surgery is permanent relief from hair disorders along with an enhanced physical appearance and good looks. However there are several mental, social, and emotional benefits that come from hair transplants as well.

The price of hair transplant surgery in India provided by Indian cosmetic surgeons of Delhi, Bangalore and Mumbai is less and the clinical care facilities provided to abroad patients are also avon. So many patients come to India for getting hair transplant surgery to save their money as well as get good health benefits from the most experienced doctors of India. Indian medical tourism has helped numerous persons living in abroad to plan and get successful and cost effective medical treatment in India. Patients are also getting pleasurable holiday relocation at the most luxurious tourism resorts after their treatment.
