Louisville’s luxury surgical facility and medi-spa gives louisville, ky, a competitive advantage over los angeles, ca

May 16, 2009 - PRLog -- Dr. Thomas Haas has always been at the leading edge of enhancing personal image but now he does it with even more style and luxury to possibly transform the whole industry. His state-of-the-art surgical center and medical spa showcases the latest advances in skin care, cosmetic surgery procedures and image enhancement and is attracting business to Louisville from all over the country, indeed all over the world. Dr. Haas is at the fore-front of underlining Louisville as one of the prominent medical communities in the country by providing a unique, luxurious, environment to a successful practice and rivaling Los Angeles as the place to go for cosmetic enhancement.

Executive vice president of JRA Architects, Mark Trier, states, “The primary design motif is the creation of a building that acts as a piece of beautiful sculpture emulating the sophisticated practice of this area’s leading plastic surgeon. The entrance is denoted by twin slate towers gently inviting visitors into the building. The lobby is highly visible with a clear curtain wall glass, with the stair to the second floor highlighting this exciting two story space. IMAAGE® is designed to be a pleasant experience for all visitors with its calming colors, graceful curved corridors, and upscale décor.”

IMAAGE® is the area’s only JCAHO (Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations) surgical suite. All of the procedures are performed on-site offering patients privacy and a luxurious environment. The experience is a discreet and personal one. Patients love the fact that they don’t have to go to a crowded hospital or surgery center for their procedures. This facility also provides skin care services such as laser skin tightening, microdermabrasion, chemical peels, skin rejuvenating facials, laser hair removal and more.
