

DOMOTEX and Simple Marketing Now Announce Launch of The DOMOTEX Blog

DOMOTEX and Simple Marketing Now LLC announce the launch of The DOMOTEX Blog to promote online conversation about DOMOTEX: The World of Flooring and how visitors and exhibitors can benefit from this global flooring trade show.

Sept. 23, 2009 - PRLog -- Kinnelon, NJ – DOMOTEX and Simple Marketing Now LLC are pleased to announce the launch of The DOMOTEX Blog [<http://www.DOMOTEXblog.com>]. The new weblog promotes online conversation about DOMOTEX: The World of Flooring and how visitors and exhibitors to this large, global trade show can benefit from the wide range of flooring possibilities.

The DOMOTEX Blog allows DOMOTEX executives to pro-actively address the mystery associated with a major international trade show located in Germany by educating those interested in the resources available and showcasing the benefits that many have realized from attending. As a platform for relevant discussion, the blog simplifies what doing business outside of the United States entails.

“DOMOTEX represents a very large international flooring trade show filled with a vast range of flooring products, innovations and opportunities,” says Rita Dommermuth, vice president of Hannover Fairs USA, Inc. “Our job here in the U.S. is to eliminate the hurdles that prevent attendees and exhibitors from feeling comfortable and getting the most out of the show. The DOMOTEX Blog enables us to address questions and concerns and highlight benefits.”

“With its own self-publishing digital communications platform, DOMOTEX has the ability to make the world smaller, linking American readers to relevant global resources and eliminating angst,” says Christine B. Whittemore, chief simplifier of Simple Marketing Now LLC, a marketing consultancy focused on bridging traditional marketing with new and social marketing to improve the customer retail experience and build brand. “Doing business in foreign countries can be intimidating and confusing given the range of languages, cultures and rules of conduct. Knowing what to expect ahead of time is a huge benefit!”

Weekly blog postings will address the resources available to attendees and visitors such as those offered by the U.S. Department of Commerce to assist in doing business in foreign countries, what to expect at the show, what previous attendees and exhibitors have gained from attending, and other topics relevant to readers.

Rita Dommermuth and Jim Gould, president, Floor Covering Institute and advisor to DOMOTEX, are the primary contributors to The DOMOTEX Blog.

“This blog allows us to share with readers the positives associated with DOMOTEX. It truly is the largest and most global flooring trade fair I have attended,” says Gould. “It’s a source of flooring product innovation and an opportunity to build international relationships as well as answer questions about duties, logistics, importing and exporting.”

“In addition to bridging traditional marketing with new and social marketing tools, The DOMOTEX Blog bridges American floor covering professionals with the global marketplace, thereby ensuring that they discover what’s most beneficial to them before attending the show” adds Whittemore.

Exhibitors, attendees and all those wanting to get the most out of the DOMOTEX trade fair experience are encouraged to subscribe to the blog for updates via email or RSS feed. Simply go to www.DOMOTEXblog.com. For more information, contact Dommermuth at rdommermuth@hfusa.com or
