Dec. 21, 2010 - PRLog -- Belgaum, India, Dec 21, 2010—with the increasing client-base across the world, drshreya.com, an online homeopathic consultancy needed to take some definitive steps to boost up its efficiency. To enable this, with effect from 1st Jan 2011, drshreya.com will have a separate consultancy module for the patients with skin problems.

Dr Shreya Deshpande, the chief of drshreya.com says, "It was becoming tough for us to maintain efficiency with the pace of our growing patients across the globe. I believe in one-to-one correspondence and personalized approach to each and every case that presents to us. And skin being our one of the widest domains after respiratory allergies; we are launching this separate module for our patients. Due to this, our patients will get their homeopathic prescriptions much faster after thorough evaluation than earlier. I am sure this will boost up our client base further, as we will enable more convenient module for the patients as well as their relatives. Certainly the "New-Year-Gift" for our valuable client-base!"

According to the sources, the skin complaints like psoriasis, lichen planus, acne vulgaris, rosasea, warts, urticaria, allergic rashes, skin pigmentations, vitiligo, fungal infections, etc will be given separate questionnaire to cater the needs of skin complaints. This will enable better evaluation and prognosis of the cases homeopathically.

Also it seems that the consultancy's blog is doing well these days, with large number of visitors liking the content rich in health and homeopathic advice. People can visit http://www.drshreya.blogspot.com to know more. It is an offshoot of the popular homeopathic portal www.drshreya.com. For one-to-one correspondence, the consultancy also has a facebook page at http://www.facebook.com/doctorshreya.
