

Adventure Life Traveler Reviews Culturally-Charged Trip: The Ancient Kingdoms of Peru

Adventure Life, an eco-tour company specializing in authentic travel to Central and South America, is offering a new tour to Peru's Ancient Kingdoms.

Jan. 11, 2011 - PRLog -- (Missoula, Montana) –Adventure Life, an eco-tour company specializing in authentic travel to Central and South America, is offering a new tour to Peru's Ancient Kingdoms. This unique adventure highlights the seldom-visited sites in the northern part of the country. Travelers will explore the ancient strongholds of pre-Incan kingdoms near Trujillo and Chiclayo, visiting this area's most important ruins and the museums that shelter their most prized treasures. Travelers then make their way south to Cusco, where they'll visit the important Incan ruins of Sacsayhuamán, Pisac and Ollantaytambo, followed by a train ride to Machu Picchu and two days exploring the Lost City. “The guides in Chiclayo, Trujillo and Cusco/Machu Picchu were excellent, informative, fluent in English, and patient inasmuch as we never felt hurried at any of the museums or archaeological sites,” said 2009 traveler Brian Ivey in an Adventure Life review. “We would like to express our thanks to every one of the Adventure Life team for a truly superb holiday which we shall never forget.”

The coast of Northern Peru is home to one of the most archaeologically rich regions in all of the Americas. This area was once home to the empires of Moche, Chimu and Sican - master artisans, celebrated for their metal-work, jewelry and pottery. These impressive empires created adobe metropolitans centuries before succumbing to the Incas in 1470. However, most Peru travelers never have the chance to explore Northern Peru. Adventure Life's remedy is this culturally-charged and history-filled Peru tour. In addition to lesser-known Northern Peru, travelers will still explore iconic sites like Plaza de Armas in the heart of Cusco, the inspiring ruins of Pisac, the living Inca city of Ollantaytambo and, of course, the sacred city of Machu Picchu.

This 12-day Ancient Kingdom of Peru adventure can be booked any time for $2,055. The trip cost includes ground transportation, accommodations, guides and entrance fees. The CEO of Adventure Life, reviews the hotels and guides personally to make sure they are ideal for travelers.
