

HIT Consultant Contributes to Cover Story Feature for Physicians Practice

Technology and Cloud-based computing go hand in hand with HIT Consultant

Jan. 25, 2012 - PRLog -- Atlanta, Ga. Jan. 25, 2012: Fred Pennic, Founder of HIT Consultant, offered his expertise for a cover feature article in Physicians Practice. The technology topic relayed information about how medical practices can use cloud-based computing to enhance their EHR practices. The article titled, Can Your Practice Live in the Cloud? was released on Jan. 20 for the January 2012 edition of Physicians Practice journal.

Pennic's contribution involved information about HIPAA and security, and encouraging data backup. The three-page technology cover story also featured expertise from other knowledgeable subject matter experts in the industry.

"Being featured in Physicians Practice is a great opportunity to showcase my thought leadership on cloud-based electronic health records (EHR) systems," said Pennic. "... [These systems] allow physicians to meet the CMS mandated Meaningful-Use EHR Incentives as well as provide the appropriate data needed to improve their diagnosis and treatment decisions".

Pennic is not a stranger to Physicians Practice. He was used as a subject matter expert in April 2011 for an article titled, Can't Your Tech Tools Just Get Along and also in August 2010 for Tech Survey: Selecting the Right Practice Management System.
