SAN DIEGO - April 30, 2013 - PRLog -- San Diego, CA – IDP Patent Services today announced new offerings of fixed price affordable patent application packages, designed particularly for independent inventors, startups, and growing mid-size businesses that seek affordable patent protection. With the full adoption of the Leahy-Smith America Invents Act (AIA), the US now operates under a first-to-file system, which puts a higher degree of urgency on patent application filing. In response, IDP Patent Services is announcing a new range of affordable patent application packages.

IDP Combo Applications bundle a provisional and a non-provisional application, to allow for fast filing with a provisional application, with more time to analyze or further develop the invention, before filing a complete non-provisional application.

IDP Kickstart bundles a set of provisional and non-provisional applications. This allows a company seeking patent protection for a portfolio of evolving innovations, to file consecutive provisional patent applications, securing their innovation as it evolves. As the development stabilizes the innovation can be captured in complete non-provisional patent applications, establishing priority from the provisional applications. These packages are a great way to secure broad patent protection in the most cost-effective way, and are particularly suited for startups and growing companies wanting to establish a solid patent foundation.

We provide all packages on a fixed rate basis. A medium size IDP Combo Application for a software or electronic device invention is only $4,595 + USPTO fees. An IDP Kickstart Gold Package for two medium size inventions is only $9,995 + USPTO fees, which includes two non-provisional application, and up to 4 provisional applications.

Call IDP Patent Services on 800-528-1997 to hear more about how we can help you protect your innovation on a cost-effective basis with our range of affordable patent application services.
