

Advanced Business Solutions introduces Squeegee Page, the easiest real estate agent website manager.

If you know how to type a document and take a picture, you can build a beautiful listings website!

June 20, 2013 - PRLog -- Mount Dora, FL., Advanced Business Solutions LLC. Today introduced a new content management system to help real estate agents globally create personal listings websites easily and more effectively than ever before. Agents with no programming or design skills can create beautiful profile and listings pages and without having to pay monthly subscription fees!

"We have succeeded in creating a content management system that almost anyone can use," said John Stanford, CEO of Advanced Business Solutions. "and we have taken a simple approach that enables people to use photo images as the backbone of their website".

We have three offerings to boost anyone's online presence but our first goal is to penetrate the real estate demographic.

With its user-friendly content management system, non-technical users can create and update on their website through an easy-to-use, web browser-based interface without any special programming skills. If you know how to use Microsoft Word and a digital camera, it will be easy for you to make your very own Squeegee Page.

It's a simple tool that doesn't use fancy web design. The focus is on you, your listings and zero distractions.

Squeegee Page is fully customizable allowing you to choose from over 600 free fonts, control all aspects of your site including background, body width, text style, size & color, embed photos, videos & email subscription codes, upload photos into your photo gallery, choose from over 30 social media icons, include your Google Analytics code for visitor reporting and much, much more.
