BOCA RATON, Fla. - Feb. 14, 2014 - PRLog -- Your body is a universe that needs to be explored and understood on the cellular level. Cellular level meaning, that we are all made up of cells and that's where our sickness, health and well-being reside.

As a generation trying to remove itself from the dependency on drug medications for disease treatment, we are all trying to find new ways through preventative measures to keep our bodies strong, healthy and resistant to disease and aging. We know that it starts with us, with our cells and the way we treat them.

At the recent A4M Anti-Aging Medical Conference in Las Vegas, Silvia Binder, N.D., Ph.D., CEO of the ONDAMED companies lectured on cell detoxification. Silvia Binder had a near death experience and is currently inspiring physicians across the globe through seminars and coaching on how to read through your body's signals and bridge between your soul and your cells. Some claim that in her eyes, there is a "little piece of heaven" following her journey to coming back to living life in physical manifestation. At the lecture, Silvia explained how in times of sickness, disease or injury, our cells have become damaged, or diseased, stopping the body's flow of communication, fluid, and energy in that area of our body. To get back to a healthy state, our body has to go through a natural healing process which gets directed by our emotions and the interconnectedness between emotions and our soul inspiration.

Amongst the presenters were physicians currently using ONDAMED as a therapeutic modality at their clinics, and the focus was exploring external and internal factors that impact our cellular function and keep our cells protected from potential invaders.

Some of the detoxification methods mentioned:

- Connecting to nature, meditating
- Staying active, in movement
- Nourishing your body the right way
- Avoiding toxics such as: mold, mercury, led and other environmental hazards
- Utilizing technological medical innovations such as ONDAMED, thermography, and infrared saunas

ONDAMED as a spotlighted feature of the Anti-Aging convention attracted physicians, therapists, and patients from around the world to come and meet the inventor and his wife, the CEO. People came from across the globe to share their life changing stories and experiences with ONDAMED, from a woman who had her face injured and utilized the system to recover her skin, to a father who found it as an effective solution for his ailing son who's struggling with Lyme disease.

ONDAMED allows "touring" and traveling of your body's cellular behavior and detecting potential cellular dysfunctions often before external disease signs surface.

ONDAMED's inventor, Rolf explains, "When the practitioner scans the patient's body, it seems as though your cells are listening to the incoming stimulation and when reaching an area of dysfunction, your cells start screaming for help through the patient’s autonomic nervous system, felt by the practitioner who is palpating the patient’s radial pulse. Your cells talk – all you have to do is listen to them. ONDAMED helps you do that.”

Society often wants a magic pill to cure illness, and even more – prevent it. Traditional medicine has limited ability to discover and treat illness, and is usually a reactive medical treatment to an already manifested physical or psychological damage. More times than not it’s too late for stimulating the body’s healing abilities-- and this is where ONDAMED comes in.
