

DepositIQ Appoints New Sales Director in Southern California

DENVER - June 6, 2016 - PRLog -- Today, leading security deposit alternative provider DepositIQ announced the appointment of Maren Baugh to the position of sales director. Baugh will advance DepositIQ's growth initiatives by selling the company's innovative product to housing providers in southern California.

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to join DepositIQ's dynamic team," said Baugh. "The commitment of everyone in this company to delivering exceptional results and service to our clients is invigorating; I look forward to contributing immediately."

"Maren's background in selling to C-level decision makers will be extremely valuable as she works with prospects to identify issues that our product offerings can resolve," stated Tom Schickel, President of DepositIQ. "Her talent for building client relationships and driving revenue is impressive, which we know will continue with DepositIQ."

Baugh will call upon more than two decades of sales and marketing experience as she contributes to the expansion of DepositIQ's client base. She has most recently represented Ricoh, a global information and technology company, as an account executive. Maren holds a BS degree from Brigham Young University.

About DepositIQ:

DepositIQ offers an award-winning security deposit alternative in the place of standard refundable deposits for the multifamily housing industry. Based in Denver, Colorado and branded as "the smart alternative to deposits", the product allows owners and operators to be more competitive in their respective markets by offering a lower cost move-in option, increase closing ratios, and generate additional income. Available nationwide, DepositIQ utilizes e-signature and e-payment technology and real-time analytics to provide crucial insight into clients' operations. The product has been a success at all types of properties including multifamily, manufactured housing, and student housing.
