

USA Today and Amazon Bestselling Authors Will Lead Us to Uncover the Magic Around Us

*Nine authors blend magic and the paranormal with contemporary life in the anticipated Magic Unveiled collection.*

LOS ANGELES - Sept. 20, 2016 - PRLog -- On October 13, publisher Creative Alchemy releases Magic Unveiled: An Anthology, a collection of magical realism short stories by award-winning and bestselling authors.

The book is available to pre-order now on Amazon and other online book retailers for just 0.99¢.

Magic Unveiled seamlessly blends the supernatural with modern life, giving us characters who use smart phones and attend poetry slams, but who also, as fate would have it, uncover a world hidden alongside our own, where gods walk among men and spirits seek to intrude.

Stories range from an African Orisha stuck in today's downtown Los Angeles, trying not to fade out of existence, to a detective hunting down a supernatural suspect, with thrilling and frightening consequences.

"Magical realism must, above all, take part (for some of the time) in a realistic setting with realistic folks. Magical realism begs readers to feel safe, connected, familiar, then it throws them off that familiarity," says contributing author, H.M. Jones.

"It asks them: what if life was like this life you know, only there were hints of magic, ghosts, other worlds...It creates an alternate way to view the world we know; adds dimensions and whimsy. It questions what reality really is, and it makes readers question that, too."

Contributing authors include:

- Raven Oak – Seattle Times and Amazon bestselling author of Amaskan's Blood (The Boahim Series)
- Alesha Escobar – Amazon bestselling author of the Gray Tower Trilogy
- Devorah Fox – Amazon bestselling author of the King Bewilliam literary fantasy series
