

The Next Million Dollar Recipe

The secret weapon behind the hottest-selling, most innovative food products in a fiercely competitive market

BELLEVUE, Wash. - Feb. 12, 2017 - PRLog -- How do the most successful food product manufacturers today spearhead innovation in a highly competitive retail market? They know someone you should.

Gail Kurpgeweit is a Commercial Recipe Developer and Consultant to the foodservice industry, specializing in new product development. Her clients enjoy tremendous success from the sale of her creations, but one client's story is particularly impressive. A Bellevue, Washington-based baked goods manufacturer purchased a portfolio of custom all-natural, non-GMO, gluten-free recipes that have been selling extraordinarily well in retail stores across the U.S. including Whole Foods, Trader Joe's, Walmart, Kroger Foods, Jewel-Osco and more. The demand has been so hot for this line of products, the cookies recently launched as a "Family Pack" in Costco stores across Washington, California and Texas, where they are selling out quickly.

Ms. Kurpgeweit, a Caterer based in Issaquah, Washington, also creates recipes and formulas for one of the fastest-growing segments of the foodservice industry: Meal prep and prepared-meal delivery companies. Whether the format is ingredients-only for DIY meal prep, or fully-prepared fresh or frozen meals, the most successful meal preparation and delivery services in the U.S. depend on Ms. Kurpgeweit's creations to keep their menus fresh and exciting while increasing customer retention.

Home cooks can also enjoy Ms. Kurpgeweit's recipes through her blogs and in an upcoming cookbook entitled "Frozen & Fabulous" expected to publish in early 2018, which teaches advanced freezer meal preparation, including sous vide techniques. Some recipes are available now on her website at www.FrozenandFabulous.com, where customers can also link to Gail's exclusive freezer-to-oven meal prep containers currently available on Amazon.
