

Worldwide Business with kathy ireland Discusses Empowering Women in the Workplace with Leading Women

Company CEO, Susan Colantuono, Will Talk About the Importance of Giving Women Ample Opportunities for Advancement in Business

BOSTON - Feb. 28, 2018 - PRLog -- Worldwide Business with kathy ireland® announced an exclusive story featuring the CEO of Leading Women, LLC, Susan Colantuono. Ms. Colantuono will be discussing the importance of closing the gender gap that exists within various industries, sectors and companies.

Leading Women, founded in 2003, is a premier consulting firm for companies that are committed to closing the gender gap in business leadership. The company strives to nurture female leaders at every level in business through its unique leadership development programs.

When asked what advice Colantuono would give to another female CEO, she says, "As a CEO, or as an executive or director for that matter, if women aren't proportionately represented throughout your organization, you aren't facing a women's issue — you're facing a talent development issue with business implications. And so it's important to bring your personal commitment and the same level of organizational accountability to that challenge as you would to any business issue."

JL Haber, Vice President of Worldwide Business with kathy ireland®, couldn't be happier to feature Leading Women. He says, "The topic of empowering women in the workplace is something that can't be discussed enough. That's why we're so thrilled to feature Leading Women on our show. The company is a tremendous example for all of us who strive to give women the opportunities they so deserve."
